THE BUSINESS NEWSPAPER OF METROPOLITAN NEW ORLEANS

APRIL 14, 2008

Benjamin Karp, a New Hampshire high school senior, has launched a campaign to help pediatric patients at Tulane Medical Center. He is selling blue "Children of New Orleans" wrist bracelets for $2 to raise money to buy toys, video games and play equipment for waiting areas and patient rooms at Tulane Hospital for Children and its Pediatric Emergency Department. Karp's campaign has raised more than $1,400. The bracelets cost $2 each and are available to purchase in the Child Life and Pediatrics departments of the hospital as well as shops throughout the city. Bracelet retailers are listed online at www.thechildrenofneworleans.com.
